

LATINO MUSEUM STUDIES PROGRAM (LMSP)

About the program

What is the Latino Museum Studies Program?

The Latino Museum Studies Program (LMSP) is a summer fellowship hosted by the Smithsonian Latino Center, in partnership with various Smithsonian museums and centers. The program takes place annually during the months of July and August. LMSP is a professional development program for graduate students interested in museum careers, with a focus on U.S. Latino Studies. Each fellow works closely with a Smithsonian content expert working on a specific project.

Eligibility

What are the program's eligibility requirements?

All applicants must be enrolled in a masters or doctoral program in the United States. If you have been accepted into a program the fall of the year you are applying, you are able to apply providing documentation of your acceptance into an academic program.

Are recent graduates eligible to apply?

If you are graduating the semester before the program begins (Spring), you are eligible to apply. If you graduated the winter or any period before, you are unfortunately not eligible. You must be enrolled in a masters or doctoral program at the time of applying. For other Smithsonian internship and fellowship opportunities, please visit the following website:
<https://www.smithsonianofi.com/>

Do I have to be Latino to apply?

You do not have to be Latino to apply. You do have to have an academic focus and interest in Latino Studies. Your focus should be on the U.S. Latino experience.

Do I have to be bilingual in English and Spanish to participate?

Fluency in English and Spanish is strongly preferred, but not required. Spanish fluency requirement may be needed on specific practicum projects. Please read each project description carefully to verify the language requirements. All programming is conducted in English.

Do I need to be a US citizen to participate in the program?

No. If you are enrolled in a masters or doctoral program in the United States, you are eligible to apply. US citizens, permanent residents, and F1 visa holders are encouraged to apply.

General Information

How often do you accept applications?

Applications are accepted annually in the early part of the year. No submissions are accepted outside of the call for application period.

How many fellows are accepted for the program?

We select 12 fellows every year, unless otherwise noted.

What is needed to apply to the program?

The application is made available through the Smithsonian's Online Academic Appointment System (SOLAA). You will need to submit two essays, transcripts, resume/cv, and two letters of reference. For more information, reference the LMSP Application Checklist on the program's website.

When are applications made available?

Applications are generally made available between January and February every year, unless otherwise noted. The call for application is distributed through the Smithsonian Latino Center website, social media channels, and various listservs.

When do applications close for the 2020 program?

Applications for LMSP 2020 will close at 11:59pm Eastern Time on Friday, March 13th unless the deadline is extended and noted on the main SLC website. Late submissions are not accepted and no exceptions are made.

When are selections for LMSP 2020 announced?

We will announce the next class of Fellows in early May 2020.

Am I able to apply in the future if not selected?

Yes, please consider reapplying if you are still eligible to do so.

Am I responsible for the costs of travel and lodging to participate in the Latino Museum Studies Program?

Roundtrip economy air or regional rail transportation from within the United States to Washington, D.C. is provided. Please do not purchase your own travel as you will not be refunded. Fully furnished apartments are provided to enrolled fellows and common spaces are also shared with other members of the cohort. All fellows will have roommates. We are unable to provide individual rooms at this time.

Is a stipend provided?

Fellows will be provided a modest stipend to offset costs of meals and local transportation. Any violation of the code of conduct will result in forfeit of stipend.

What is the time commitment to participate in the program?

The program is a full-time commitment and you must be able to be in Washington, D.C. for the duration of the program.

What are the program dates for the 2020 program?

The program dates are Mon. July 6 to Fri. August 14, 2020. You should plan to be flown into Washington D.C. on Sat. July 4, 2020 and depart on Sat. August 15, 2020.

I have other questions not answered in this document. Whom should I contact?

Any questions related to the program should be referred to LMSPInfo@si.edu.